2019 Teacher Professional Learning Survey

edWeb's Teacher Professional Learning Survey

edWeb is a free online community that provides teachers and all educators with the personalized professional learning and collaboration needed to improve education and student learning.

In March 2019, edWeb conducted an annual member survey on teacher professional learning to assess how attitudes, preferences, impact, and results have changed in the past year.

About the Survey

The survey was conducted in March 2019, one year after the 2018 survey to provide an annual comparison.

The survey was sent to 97,580 teachers and received 1,733 replies, a 1.78% response rate, and a 48% increase over last year's response. No incentive was given to reply.

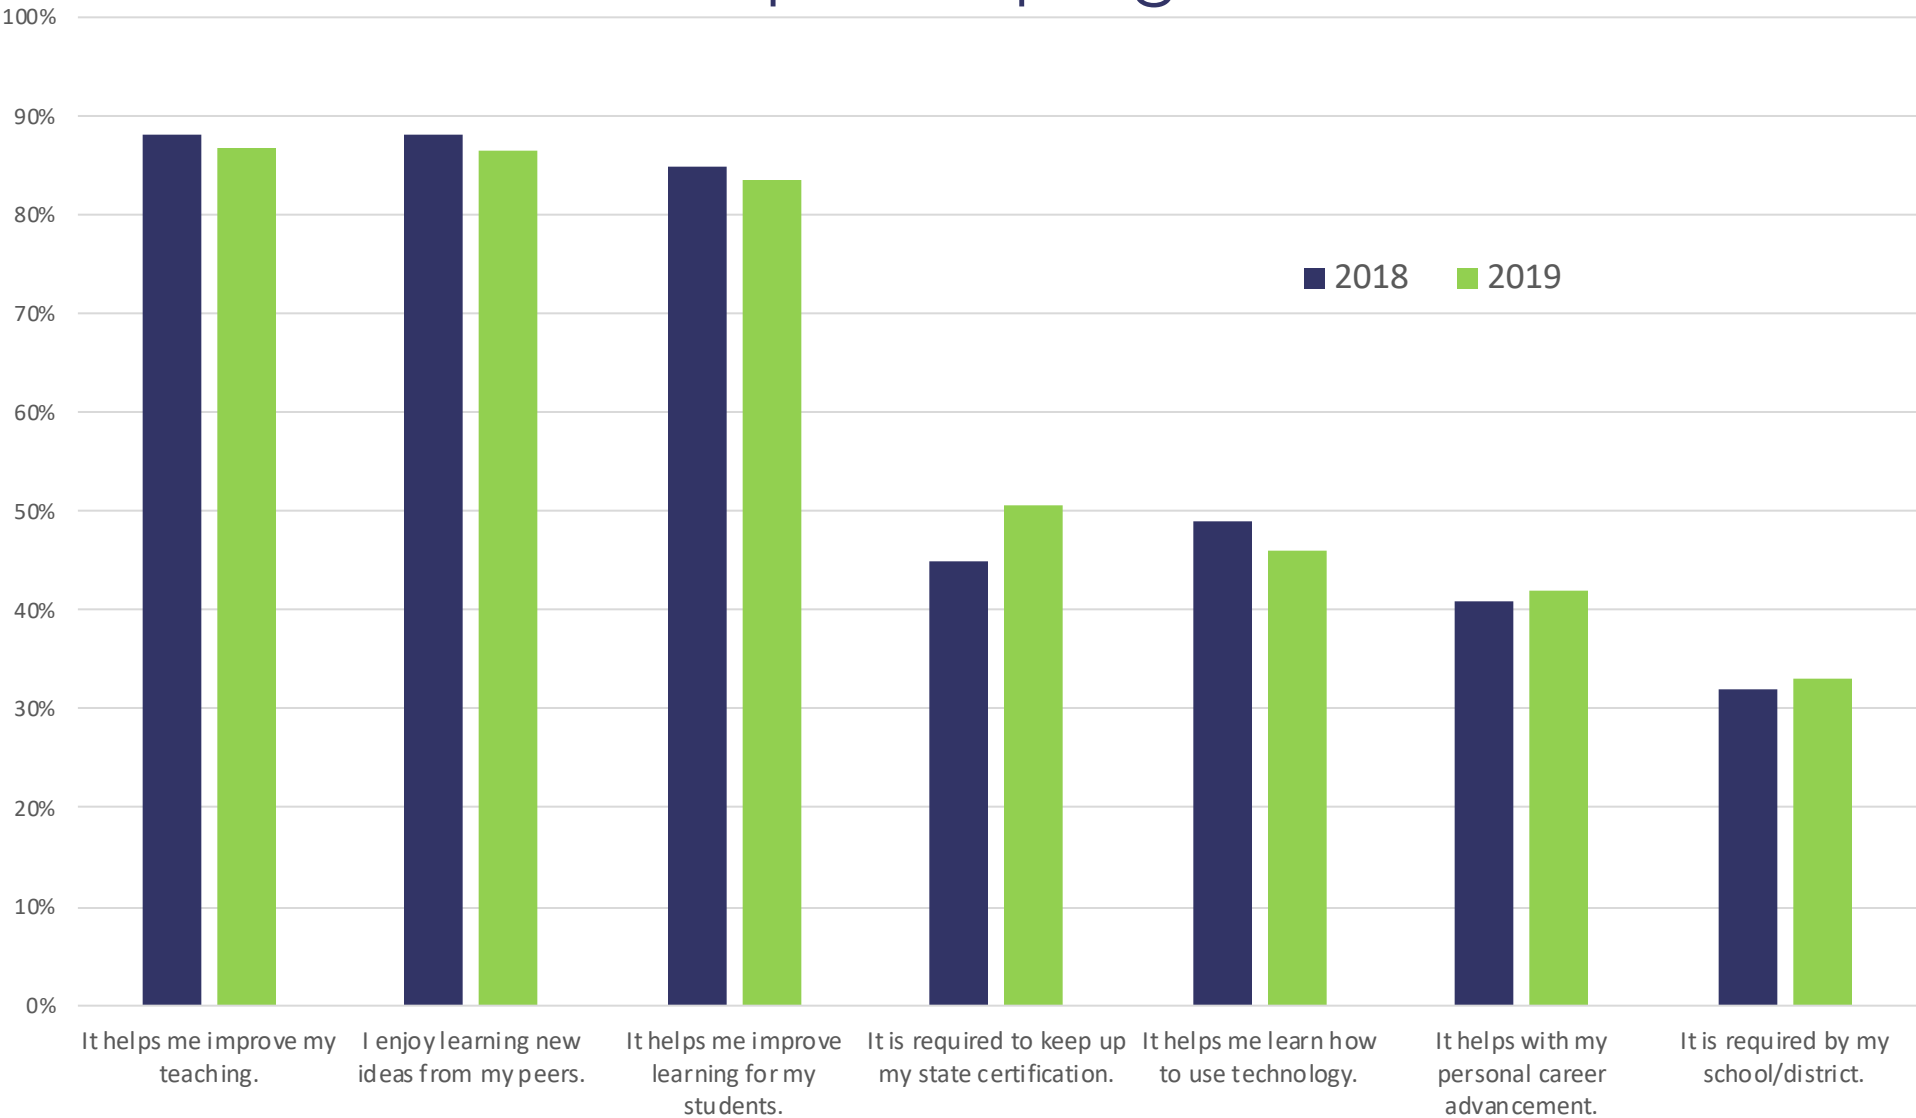

The survey shows the continuing appeal and value of online professional learning, and the impact it has on teaching and on student learning.

Sample of Teachers' Comments

"edWeb provides me with learning opportunities that do not require me to leave my teaching environment during school hours. This is a priceless element in a busy teacher's life. It is difficult to be out of your classroom these days with so many social emotional factors in the room impacting productivity."

"I use edWeb almost exclusively for all my PD. I am the only teacher in my district teaching my subject so I like that I can collaborate with peers. I recommend all the webinars to people I know on Facebook, Twitter and in my district. I especially like that I can watch at anytime, there is no cost, and receive a certificate with my name on it. Thank you for providing this free service."

"Many of the edWeb presentations have been more useful than courses I've been required to take that are very expensive. The information is current in an ever changing world and applicable to the services I provide to the students in my district. Thank you."

"I just want to express my gratitude for the work and services you provide. I love how flexible the webinars are since I can view them at a later time. I also love how we get regular emails describing new webinars that are coming up. It's non-committal yet approachable. Love it."

"Three things I love the most about edWeb: 1) The vast array of webinar choices. 2) The quality of the webinars. 3) The on-demand feature that allows me to view webinars when it's convenient. Thank you for providing such a wonderful service!"
